History Heroes – A museum volunteer profile.

Volunteers are the very heart and soul of the museum. These generous folks are ambassadors for our community, brimming with information and interest in community history. We thank them for their continued dedication!

Judy Loach

Judy has been a volunteer with the Museum for many years. Her dedication to the museum, our staff and the people of North Bay is infectious. Having grown up in the area, at Nipissing Junction, you may recognize her in the photograph above. (Judy is the sweet little girl in the middle of the back row 6th from the right).

Many know Judy from her years at Harris drugs on Main Street. Besides her many volunteer commitments with charities and her church, she also finds time to work at Martyn Funeral home. Among her contributions as a volunteer at the museum, she has been extremely helpful in building the museum collection with her photographs, anecdotes and community connections.

Judy is a friend to all. You only need to take a quick walk down the street with Judy to realize just how well liked she is! Her many colleagues and friends all know that they can count on Judy to help at any event. Count on Judy to bring her camera, she is our official shutterbug.

Judy, thank you for everything, you are a History Hero!
